Introduction

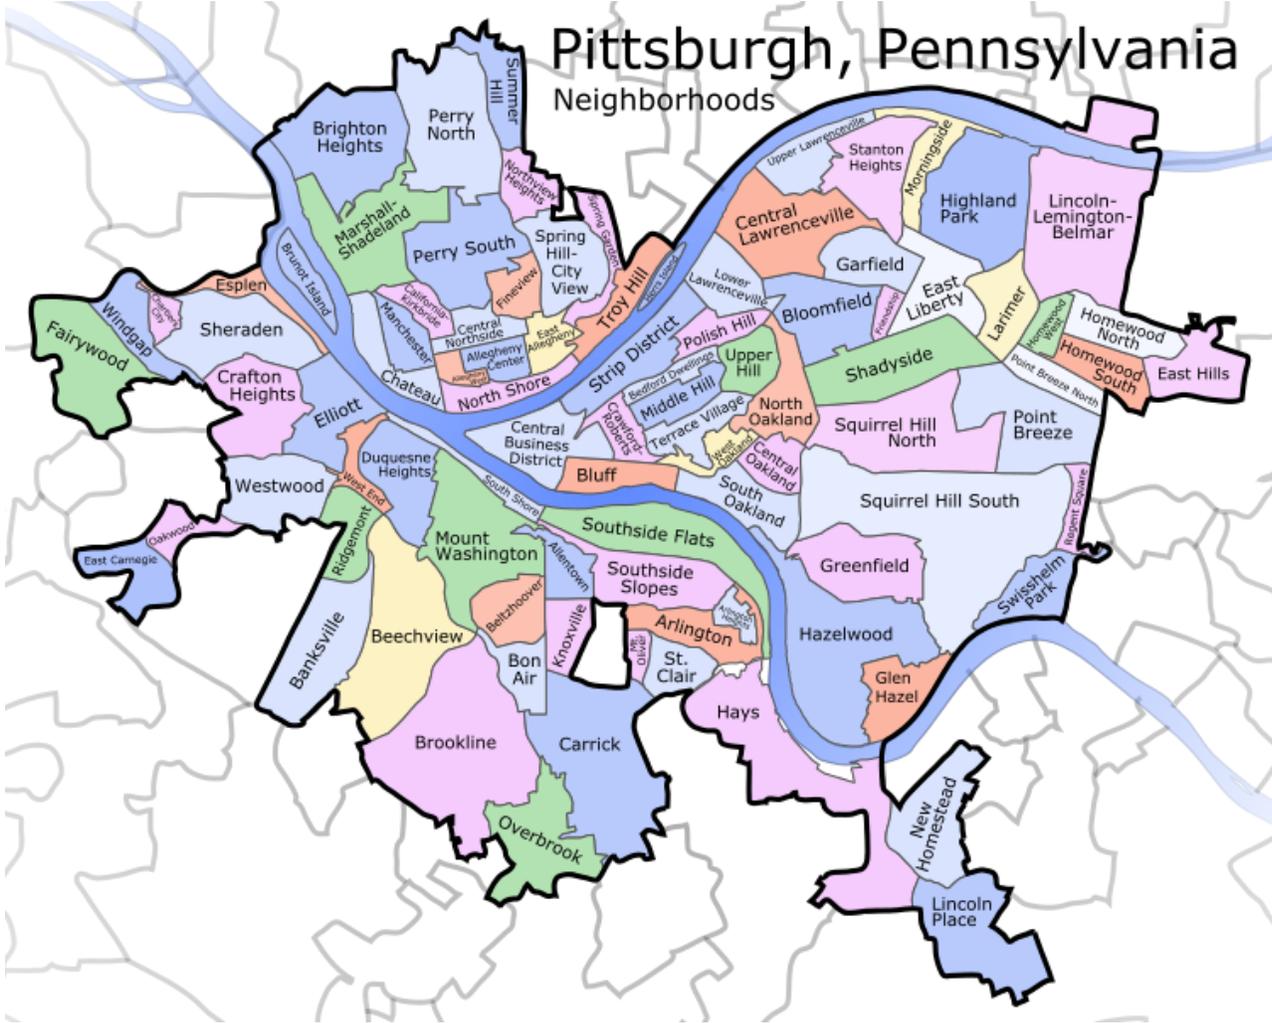

This guide was created by Michaela Avino and Nicole McCaffrey, two University of Pittsburgh students, in Summer 2022. We were working at Sojourner House/MOMS through Bridging the Gaps during this time. As interns, we spent a lot of time getting to know East Liberty, Sojourner House, and the residents. We learned that many people coming to Sojourner House are new to Pittsburgh, and maybe new to being parents! Residents told us that it would be helpful for them to know more about the area and what low-cost, family-friendly activities exist here. We created this guide with that in mind.

Inside, you will find information about parks, family and recreation centers, libraries, museums, and other fun attractions, as well as suggestions for family-friendly festivals. We focused as much as possible on places close to East Liberty and Homewood, near the Sojourner House/MOMS locations. We couldn't fit all the amazing things Pittsburgh has to offer—but we did provide some online resources to help you find more! At the back of the guide, we listed emergency numbers and places to know in this area, plus information about the bus system. Throughout the guide, we also mention what buses stop close to the places we've included.

We are very grateful for the time we spent at Sojourner House and all we learned from the people we met there. The MOMS residents really helped us to make this guide extra special and useful. Even the kids made some drawings for the guide! We hope that residents use and add to this guide for a long time. If you have any suggestions, please share them with the staff!

One unique resource for families here in Pittsburgh is the toy lending library. With a membership, you can borrow toys and use their play area. They also offer play-at-home ideas for free on their website at <https://www.pghtoys.org/play-at-home>

There are two forms of membership:

- Volunteer membership: $50 for one year. You can borrow up to four toys at a time for four weeks and use their in-person play area. With this option, you will need to volunteer for at least one two-hour shift per month.
- Lending membership: $30 for one year. You can borrow up to three toys at a time for three weeks. This does not include access to the play area. You do not need to volunteer for this membership.

The Pittsburgh Toy Lending library also offers a “pay what you can” option for families that cannot afford full-price membership. In this sliding scale, a lending membership is available for $5 to $29/year and a volunteer membership is available for $5 to $49/year (volunteer commitment still required).

Play and Education

Early Head Start (for infants to 3 years old) and Head Start (for children 3-5 years old) are high-quality, educational programs that take place in the home and in classrooms. These programs partner with families to teach young children the skills they need to be successful in kindergarten and in life. These programs are FREE for families who qualify.

Your child is eligible if any of the following are true*

- If your household income is within qualifying limits
- If your child has an eligible disability
- If the child is in foster care
- If the child's family is experiencing homelessness

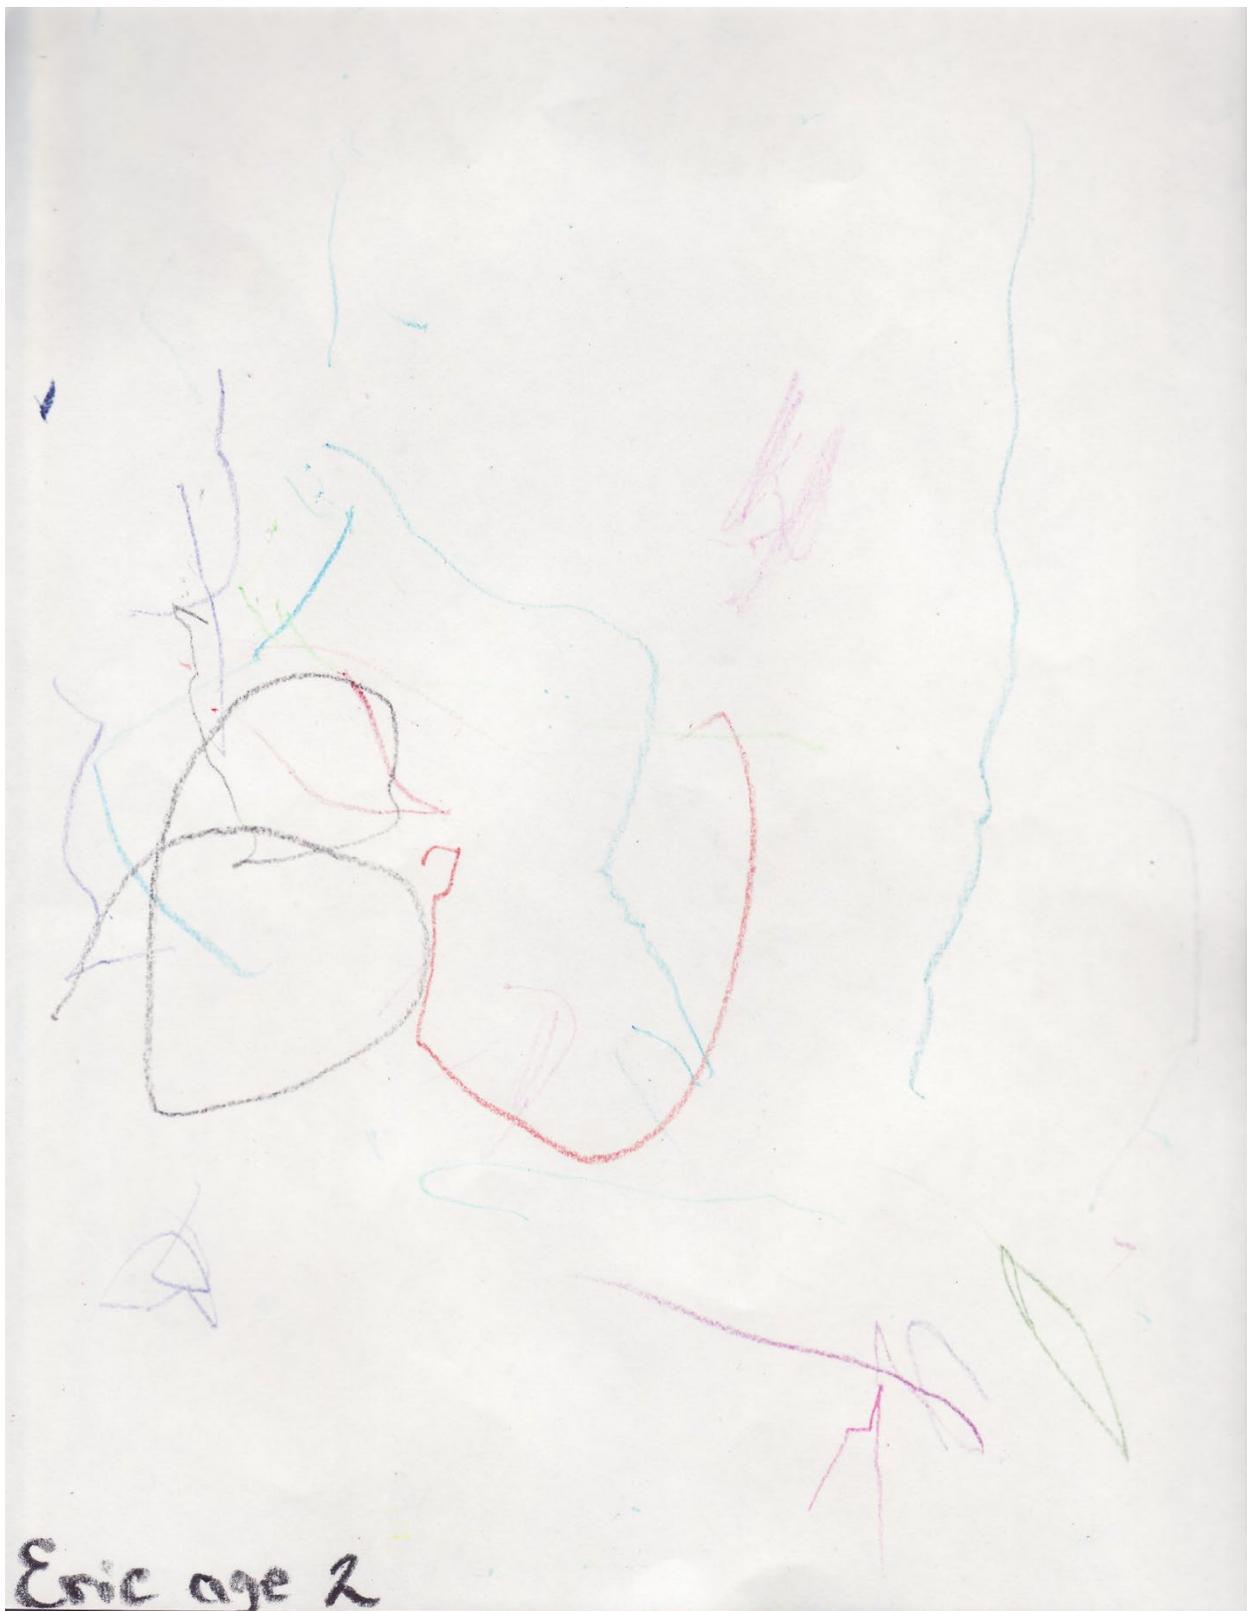

*Space in the programs is limited. Eligibility does not guarantee placement in the program.

The following organizations manage Head Start and Early Head Start programs in Allegheny County:

Allegheny Intermediate Unit (412) 394-5798	Pittsburgh Public Schools (412) 529-4294	Council of Three Rivers American Indian Center (412) 491-3936
University of Pittsburgh Office of Child Development (412) 383-3367		Allegheny County Department of Human Services (866) 214-5437

Each organization may have different requirements and sites, so contact them individually to learn more about registering in their programs!

You can also visit <https://eclkc.ohs.acf.hhs.gov/center-locator> to search for programs near you.

- Children's play area hosts story times and Kids Club
- Regular Teen Time events with projects for teens
- Educational and community events for adults, teens, and children

To sign up for a library card:

- As a Pennsylvania resident, you can get your own library card AND one for your children under 12 years old. Teens age 13-17 with their own ID can get their own account
- Apply online for adults:
<https://librarycatalog.einetwork.net/MyResearch/GetCard>
- Apply in-person at any CLP location
 - You will need to have a form of photo ID, such as: PA driver's license or other US driver's license, PA identification card, passport, state ID, military ID, work ID, student ID, work visa, or green card. If your license is expired you must also have a proof of address.
 - If your photo ID is not up-to-date, you might need to bring proof of housing. For non-traditional housing, this can be written proof of the current address on your organization's letterhead. A piece of mail like a bill or a bank statement is okay as well.

There are many great apps and resources that you can access with a library card, too!

Allegheny County Libraries 	With the Allegheny County Libraries app, you can access your library account, search the catalog for items, and place holds from your phone. It also has information about events, popular reading, and media resources, like eBooks and the RAD Pass. You can even link your child's library card to your own account.
Libby 	Libby is great for borrowing books (e-books and audiobooks) and magazines with your smartphone! You can send books to your e-reader or use the app on your phone to read.
Hoopla 	Hoopla is an app that lets you borrow audiobooks, eBooks, comics, movies, TV, magazines, or music with a phone or computer. Sign up with a library card to use! One special feature of Hoopla is the BingePass. With BingePass, you can borrow a collection of items and get unlimited access to their content with one borrow.
Little Pim & Mango 	Little Pim and Mango are language-learning tools. Little Pim is an online program for children, while Mango is online or app-based. Sign up with your library card at https://connect.mangolanguages.com/einetwork to use Little Pim and Mango for free. Once logged in, you can use Mango or go to the "Explore" tab and choose "Little Pim" for language-learning videos.

Flipster 	Flipster lets you read magazine issues for free on your phone! Find Flipster wherever you download apps.
BookFlix and TrueFlix 	BookFlix and TrueFlix offer read-along stories, eBooks and games. You can use them on any computer with a Wi-Fi connection or on your phone's browser. BookFlix has fiction and nonfiction books for kids from pre-K to third grade. TrueFlix is focused on history and social sciences education. Follow the links provided at https://www.carnegielibrary.org/kids-teens/eresources-for-families/ and enter your library card information to use to these websites for free.
CreativeBug 	CreativeBug is an online collection of crafting classes with projects for kids and teens. CreativeBug is subscription-based, but your library card grants you free access if you sign up at https://www-creativebug-com.clp-ezp.carnegielibrary.org/lib/carnegielibrary

Remember to double-check your spelling when typing in these websites.

A few different options for homework help are available through the library, like live homework help from Tutor.com. Resources may require a library card for access. More information online at: <https://www.carnegielibrary.org/kids-teens/homework-help/>

Another library bonus that will help you explore the city is the RAD Pass! The RAD Pass connects you to free or low-cost tickets for museums, theaters, music venues, and classical music events in Pittsburgh. You can go to <https://radpass.org> to reserve a RAD Pass.
